

DESIGN IN COLOUR

With a simple yet striking palette, this little house in Wānaka is anything but ordinary.

Built on a rear site in a suburban subdivision, a small house by Rafe Maclean for young clients shows the power of design. In a few succinct moves, Maclean has created something special.

Inside, hard-wearing pine plywood with crisp negative details is sealed with Resene Aquaclear Natural, contrasting with doors painted in Resene Seaweed. Outside, meanwhile, Resene Scoria on the roof deck and soffits matches the red cladding for a continuous – but cheerful – look. As we say: something special.
