

Wonder walls

In part three of our paint-pairing series, we showcase a couple of easy ways to create sleep spaces for children that are all about fun, fun, fun.

Under the sea

1. Print and carefully cut out a paper waves template (homestyle.co.nz/waves).
2. Use a roller to paint the entire wall with two or three coats of Resene Point Break. Allow to dry.
3. Decide how high up the wall you'd like the waves to go, draw a straight line across the wall with a pencil, then stick two 48mm-wide strips of painters' tape one on top of the other along the wall,

4. Use the pencil and template to draw the outline of the wave onto the tape.
5. Use a craft knife to slice along the outline. Peel off the upper half-moon segments, leaving the rest of the tape.
6. Use a roller to paint the top half of the wall – down to the tape – with two or three coats of Resene Escape. Once dry, remove the remaining tape.

Encourage a harmonious shared space by personalising a side of the bedroom to suit each child. When pairing paint colours to divide a room in half, create interest by teaming a lighter and a bolder shade, and when making your selection, be sure to view the swatches side by side, as the hues need to work together. As well as choosing shades of different strengths, sticking to a palette of all warm – or all cool tones will make for a compelling contrast without being too jarring. Aim to continue the colour theme in your soft furnishing and accessories.
