Forget minimalism and its constraints. Make a move towards maximalism – one of the hottest styles in interior design. A blend of historical design and colours, layers and textures, and mixed artwork allows the maximalist to create an interior that not only melds the patina of time with contemporary decor but also creates an interior that is unique. “Maximalism allows you to let your imagination loose,” says Rebecca Long, Resene colour expert. “The key here is to connect the dots and play close attention to design elements, such as repetition and shape, to build your scheme.” Pairing colours is where it’s at: warm greys paired with tan, camel, terracotta and brown-blacks, for instance. Interior designer Debbie Abercrombie explains, “The combination of black on tan or tan on black is a smart choice. Also keep an eye out for ochres and colours of cracked earth. The key is seeing colour in combination. Colours isolated are often not the wow we are looking for. It is how we combine them.” See the latest colour trends in The Range fashion colours fandeck from Resene for fresh ideas for your home. When you’re choosing trends, remember the golden rule: always choose colours you love. That way you’ll enjoy them for years to come. The Resene colour collection includes the latest designer paint colours. Available from Resene ColorShops and resellers (resene.co.nz/colorshops or 0800 737 363). Please view a physical Resene colour sample before making your final choice.
